

Mark IV Automotive EDI Mandate

February 2007

In an effort to reduce costs and increase efficiencies, Mark IV Automotive has mandated that all suppliers electronically receive material release documents, process and return an advanced ship notice (ASN) to Mark IV Automotive in the desired EDI format ANSI X12 Version 4010. Mark IV Automotive will no longer send or receive facsimile documents.

Mark IV Automotive offers two solutions to enable suppliers to send and receive EDI documents.

- ❖ Traditional EDI via VAN's
- ❖ Internet based solution, iExchangeWeb

If you choose to receive your EDI via a VAN the Mark IV Automotive EDI specifications may be downloaded from www.markivautosupplier.com.

If your company does not support traditional EDI, follow the directions below to register for iConnect's product – iExchangeWeb.

iConnect will enable your company to meet Mark IV Automotive's electronic commerce (EC) requirements including bar coding irrespective of your current EC capabilities. The iConnect solution, iExchangeWeb, also provides your company the capability to meet your other customers' EC requirements, extend this process to your supplier community as well as the ability to expedite in-house transactions. This service does not require any additional software or hardware installation.
